Big Fire At Northfield Farms

Tenney Farm Visited by Conflagration

Help Summoned From Outside Three Alarms Sounded

This (Friday) morning shortly before nine o'clock fire was discovered breaking out at the top of the large hay barn on the extensive dairy farm of Mr. Charles Tenney on the Meadows at Northfield Farms near the Connecticut River and a general alarm of fire was at once sounded. Nearly four hundred cattle in their stalls in the adjoining building were immediately released by quick work of the farm employees and turned out to safety in the fields. When Chief Stearns of Northfield Fire Department arrived he saw at once that he was faced with a burlesque task for the fire was gaining and threatened to burn the entire lot of buildings including the large residence. Help was summoned from Greenfield, Turners Falls, Millers Falls and Hinsdale and these departments responded promptly with a crew of men and their pumping engines.

Greenfield apparatus went to the river and pumped a continuous stream of water supported by Turners Falls and Hinsdale while Millers Falls helped in the relay. Two streams of water were poured on the buildings and burning fire and due to hard work all buildings were saved except the large silo and big barn containing nearly 150 tons of hay. At eleven o'clock the fire was under control. Bucket brigades and chemicals were used and the men of the Northfield Fire Department worked steadily as did the contingent from the Northfield Seminary. It was Northfield's biggest fire for years. In talking with a HERALD representative Mr. Tenney expressed his appreciation of the splendid effort made in saving his property by so many willing hands. No estimate can as yet be made of the loss though it will be fully covered by insurance. The fire is thought to have started from spontaneous combustion in the hay mow. Northfield's telephone operator gave good service in quick dispatch of calls and summoning help. The firemen will remain on duty for some time today to quench the burning debris and make sure that all is safe before leaving.

Walking Trips About Northfield

An enjoyable afternoon may well be spent by visitors to Northfield by hiking along the roads and through the shaded paths of the mountains. Many interesting points of interest. The walks will not prove too much for any person enjoying good health and the effort will be worth the while.

Here are some of the places and the distance in miles from the Seminary Auditorium for the round trip. Make up a party and invite a local resident to go with you and show the way.

Republicans To Gather At Lake Rohunta

Franklin County Republicans will get together for a big time on Wednesday July 27, at Lake Rohunta as arranged by the Greenfield district woman's Republican Club. This will be one of several to be held at different places in the county in the near future. There will be addresses from 5 to 6, and from 7 to 8 by those who are prominent in county Republican politics. They will probably include Congressman Downing, July 27, when our local team will meet the Montague Machine Co., team of Montague. The game is staged for the benefit of the Boy Scout troop fund, out of which it is hoped to be able to send the boys of Troop 9 to Camp Coolidge on Lake Nesaponsett, near North Dana.

Captain Dean Williams will put the strongest possible local combination in the field, for the Montague rivals will be hard to beat. They have a fast team, containing several of the Turners Falls high school stars.

Camp Coolidge is the official boy scout camp for Franklin and Hampshire counties. It will mean everything to the boys of Troop 9 to spend a week with higher officials and fellow scouts from other troops. They will learn the best of scout practice and morale.

There is no entrance fee to the ball game, but a collection will be taken, when it is hoped every one will chip in generously for this worthy object. The American Legion is sponsor for Troop 9.

Community Nurse Has Been Appointed

Mrs. Earl Lilly who has in the past faithfully served Northfield and its interests as community nurse has again been chosen as by the Selectmen to fill the position beginning September first. When Mrs. Lilly resigned her position a year ago many applicants came forward for consideration and Miss Shirley Thorne of Newport, Vt., was selected. Since Miss Thorne's resignation many applications for the position were again received but the selectmen hearing of Mrs. Lilly's availability unanimously offered her the work and she will assume the position on September first.

Foreign Mission Conference Closes Well Attended

The Women's Foreign Missionary Conference closed its sessions on Wednesday evening and the hundreds of delegates returned to their homes enthusiastic and anxious to again greet their friends next year. On last Monday evening a model session of the Geneva Disarmament Conference was given. The large room was decorated with the flags of all nations. Placards designated the seating of delegates. Addresses were presented by persons representing the nations and important facts were presented. A resolution of support for disarmament was adopted and copies were sent to President Hoover and Dr. Mary E. Woolley of the American delegation at Geneva.

This resolution stated "that we, women citizens of the United States, representing eight Protestant denominations aggregating 10,000 members in 40 churches of New England, New York, New Jersey and five other states, most heartily support President Hoover in his attempts to persuade the United States and all other nations to reduce armaments, and do urge him to take advantage of every opportunity to win the cooperation of all the nations for peace through disarmament."

On Tuesday the program was marked by a memorial service and Amy C. Welcher of Hartford, Conn., vice-president of the Conference, spoke on the "Lives Triumphant in the Orient."

In the consecration service two blue stars were pinned on the white background of the mission flag indicating that two new missionaries had gone out from this conference during the year. These were for Mrs. Helen Anderson Romig of China, and Amelia Froisius, who is going to India as a trained nurse. A gold star will be pinned to the flag in memory of Ethel Leroy, who died this past winter in India.

Throughout the conference the addresses and discussions were intensely interesting. The speakers of the conference were: Dr. Milton Stauffer, Dr. Oscar Buck, Dr. Eleanor Calverly, Mrs. Virgil Sease, Miss Gertrude Schultz, Miss Ruth Seabury, Dr. Caroline Palmer, Miss Bertha Enderle, Miss Frances Ball, Miss Rachel Benfer, Miss Marian Bennett, Miss Mary Moore and Miss Clara Schaffner.

Work Progresses On French King Bridge

Work on the new bridge across the Connecticut river is being rushed and the work should be completed within schedule. With good weather the steel workers should be able to finish within the next two weeks. Charles A. Bassett of Needham has the subcontract of installing the cement roadbed and sidewalk on the north side and erecting the fences. Forms have already been made and laid for a portion of the roadway across the bridge. A force of men is at present polishing the pylons at the eastern entrance of the bridge. It has been decided to erect a bronze pole of about 15 feet high on each of these pylons on top of which will be a large bronze eagle and at each side of the eagle will be a lantern of the revolutionary period which will be lighted by electricity. The fences will be of cast iron, four feet in height and the posts of the fence will be of cast iron.

Mulligan Vs. Finnegan Friday, July 22nd

The great day is here again, and what a day it will be at The Northfield. Captain Ed. Dawe has been putting his Finnegan through some fast paces on the ball field these past weeks and reports his boys to be in great form. As Dawe is at present polishing the pylons at the eastern entrance of the bridge, it has been decided to erect a bronze pole of about 15 feet high on each of these pylons on top of which will be a large bronze eagle and at each side of the eagle will be a lantern of the revolutionary period which will be lighted by electricity. The fences will be of cast iron, four feet in height and the posts of the fence will be of cast iron.

To hear Captain Johnny Hare of the Mulligans speak, one would think that his team was to be compared with the New York Yankees. Says Captain Hare, "I'm starting Bob Duncan on the mound for our team and with players like Charles Seoble and Bill Kelly to knock a few home runs, I can't see anything to it but another 'win' for the Mulligans."

No matter which side wins the baseball game, neither team will lack for cheering. The cheer leaders have been drilling their "mobs" in secret, and although no one except "them" knows what the "cheers" or "jeers" will be, it is safe to say that they will be worth coming miles to hear and see. The girls will come marching on the field, bedecked in gay colored dresses, singing their favorite "team songs." Banners will be flying in the breeze, and at 3 p.m., the umpire will cry "Play Ball" and the "battle" will be on.

Everyone and anyone within 1,000 miles of Northfield is invited to be a "witness" at this year's Mulligan-Finnegan baseball game. So today is the day and what a crowd they will have. Plan to attend as all Northfield will be there.

Lawn Party

On the lawn of the South church Saturday July 23rd a lawn party will be given with supper to be served from five to eight o'clock. Everybody invited.

Home And Foreign Mission Conferences To Merge Interests

The Home Missionary Conference voted for this same action by an equally overwhelming vote last week. The two conferences of over 1,000 delegates represent more than 500 churches in New England, New Jersey, and New York. Preparations are already under way to have the single conference in session next year for ten days under the designation of Northfield Women's Missionary Conference and a single general committee will be elected to serve. The missionary movement is not geographical but spiritual," was the statement of Dr. Oscar M. Buck, Drexel Seminary, Madison, N. J., who is giving addresses here on "The Forward Look of Christian Missions," when he heard of the action taken. Mrs. John M. Cratty, New York City, chairman of the Foreign Missionary Conference said that "most sincerely we feel that God has been preparing us to work together in our effort to promote the missionary enterprise throughout the world. We need each other and we take the forward step together."

Mrs. Virgil B. Sease of Parlin, N. J., chairman of the Home Missionary Conference declared that "we cannot divide our missionary tasks. The mission field comprises every soul who does not accept Jesus Christ as his Savior." Dr. Milton B. Stauffer of New Brunswick, N. J., Theological Seminary, who is speaking on Missionary education here, said that "the term Foreign has become a shrinking word. The whole world has become Home territory."

The General Committee of the Foreign Conference consists of Mrs. John M. Cratty, Chairman, Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, Honorary Chairman, Miss Amy O. Welcher, Program, Miss Emily J. Werner, Program (Acting), Mrs. James M. Pratt, Secretary, Miss Edna Springfield, Treasurer, Mrs. W. A. Contractor Dresser is pushing the work of repairs and reconstruction of the Schell Bridge and a large force of men are being employed. It is hoped that the bridge will be finished and open to travel soon as at present it causes considerable inconvenience to those who find it necessary to use.

No statement is as yet available of the dividends paid to depositors of the savings departments of the Franklin County Trust Co. the First National Bank & Trust Co. of Greenfield or the other banks of the county but it is safe to assume that the amount was considerable. ## Recovers Cattle

Last week a number of cattle were discovered at different places at Northfield Farms and it was evident that the same had strayed from some pasture. The cattle were properly cared for and held for an owner. Last Friday Mr. Hurl Dresser of Farley who owned the cattle discovered his loss and came to Northfield Farms to get them. They escaped from their pasture and wandered away over the mountain, to come down on this side of the slope. Four of them came down across Ernest Ash's pasture to the open fields near the road. These were caught and put into the barn on Richard Pierce's place. Three others got into Roger Billings' pasture.

Last Sunday At The Auditorium

Rev. Dr. Dwight Bradley, minister of the Congregational church of Newton, addressed the service at the Auditorium last Sunday in connection with the Missionary Conference. Mr. A. G. Moody presided and Rev. W. Stanley Carney of the Congregational Church assisted. Prof. Emil Calveca, violinist, and Marguerite Hazzard, soprano, contributed solos. Prof. Calveca played a violin solo "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and the choir of delegates under direction of Miss Hazzard, conference leader of singing, sang an anthem. Miss Hazzard sang a solo with piano and violin accompaniment.

"Jesus taught people to fear more often than he taught them to not to be afraid," Dr. Bradley stated.

"Fear not, he told to only a small flock who had become adjusted sympathetically to the universe. He did not tell the Romans, the Scribes and the rich to cease fearing."

"There is plenty in the world to be afraid of," the speaker went on to say. "Rather than be afraid of the depression, we should fear the causes of that disaster. In the evening Dr. Frank Cary gave an address on Missionary work in Japan. He spoke frankly as a friend of Japan and gave the Japanese attitude toward the war with China. He said that the people of Japan were united behind the army and navy and that the war spirit is even strong among the children in the schools. He pointed out that the Japanese believe that they are fighting for the sanctity of treaties and that there will be no weakening of national morale.

A collection was taken at the evening session of the conference for the promotion of Christian literature on foreign fields.

Items Of Interest

Sixteen persons were killed by motor vehicles in Massachusetts the past week, one less than in the week before, but the same number as in the same period a year ago. Registrar Morgan T. Ryan reported Monday.

The most startling indictment in the statement of Registrar Ryan that all drivers should be careful and could have been avoided through care by the motorist or the pedestrian. Mr. Ryan says that pedestrians must exercise care, and by the same token, the motorist has no right to forget the rights of pedestrians.

EDITORIAL

It is amazing how little talk there has been during the depression on the part of labor and the political parties of dissent. There have been no strikes, no threats of reprisals. Labor, speaking generally, has shown a disposition to bear its share of the burdens that have fallen on all alike. Widespread unemployment and an unavoidable drop in the average wage scale—a drop which has largely been compensated by lower commodity prices—have not shaken the faith of an overwhelming percentage of workers in the stability of the government and the ability of industry to work its way out of its troubles.

In receiving so many renewals of subscriptions to the Herald, the Editor is grateful for the many kind personal words of comment contained in the letters and its a satisfaction and an indication that the paper is appreciated. Those responsible for the issue each week are doing their best in assembling the news and putting the same along with the advertising in attractive and readable form. From the far northwest a subscriber who has lived in Northfield many years, writes:

"I like the Herald because you keep it clean and free from sensational news or sensational headlines. When there is a bit of unpleasantness about something personal, you have made it as inconspicuous as possible. I wish you success in every way."

From a friend in California, also a former Northfield resident comes this greeting, "I enjoy reading the Herald and wish you success. Perhaps as time goes on you can make it the county weekly with news of all county towns. An enlarged paper with double the subscription price. However the paper is all right as it is."

Another word of encouragement comes from one in authority in the Northfield Schools, "Congratulations on the character of the Herald."

People's Forum

Dear Mr. Editor:

What does it mean to you to have near at hand a well equipped hospital, ready at anytime, day or night, to X-ray a broken bone, to accept the lacerated victim of an accident whose life depends on the instant use of sterile mixtures and dressings—an institution that stands ready at the same time to give the best of scientific care to your grand-parent with chronic heart disease, who will need weeks of watchful nursing;—a hospital that also has a modern up-to-date maternity ward and nursery; a place where your child with diphtheria, scarlet fever or infantile paralysis may have the best care? Were you ever in an accident, a long way from home and must have immediate hospital care for your friends and yourself? Such was a case near here recently and when discharged from the Franklin County Hospital their praise of the splendid care received reflected great credit on this institution.

Will you insure the maintenance of this service by doing your share? If you cannot attend the sale, send a contribution to the chairman, Mrs. Wolfert G. Webber.

Hospital Friend

To The Editor:

May I call attention through your columns to a great service which can be rendered to families of the unemployed this summer by making church kitchens available for canning. The Women's Missionary Societies can organize and direct the work. Farmers, the owners of estates and state departments of agriculture will be glad to contribute fruits and vegetables. Contributions of jam and sugar can be obtained, and thousands of families enabled to lay up food against next winter's need. At Morgantown, West Virginia, which I visited recently, 6,000 quarts of apples, apple butter and tomatoes were canned, and over two hundred bushels of apples were dried in the community canning kitchens which were made available by the various churches in Morgantown.

Sincerely yours,

Editors Note:—Is there not something in this suggestion which could be worked out for Northfield.

THE BEST THINGS

"What are the best things in the world?"
I asked of a little child.
"Why, the things out of doors, daddy's arms,
And mother's face when she smiles."

"What are the best things in the world?"
I asked of a maiden sweet.
"Why, a beautiful face, handsome clothes,
And lovers at one's feet."

"What are the best things in the world?"
I asked of a wealthy man.
"Why, money and jewels, bank notes and bonds,
With a scattering of houses and land."

"What are the best things in the world?"
I asked of a laborer tall.
"Why, work and rest, with enough to eat,
And health is the best of all."

"What are the best things in the world?"
I asked of a mother and wife.
"Why, a husband and children, a little home,
And a world that is free from strife."

"What are the best things in the world?"
I asked of a woman gray.
"Why, peace and contentment, a place to rest,
And sweet memories of by gone days."

"WE SHALL NOT TRAVEL BY THE ROAD WE MAKE"

We shall not travel by the road we make:
'Ere day by day the sound of many feet
Is heard upon the stones that now we break.
We shall be come to where the crossroads meet.

For us the heat by day, the cold by night,
The inch slow progress, and the heavy load,
And death at last to close the long grim fight
With man and beast and stone; for them the Road.

For them the shade of trees that now we plant,
The safe, smooth journey and the final goal,
Yes, birthright in the land of covenant;
For us day labor, travail of the soul.

And yet the road is ours as never theirs.
Is not one joy on us alone bestowed?
—Author unknown.

DAY BY DAY

If nobody came to our house,
What a drab world this would be.
The dirt might lie in the corners;
If nobody came to see.

But now we awake each morning,
With zest for the coming day,
Among the friends around us,
Some may drop in to stay.

Perhaps it is just for a moment,
The gift of a word and a smile;
Yet all the day is sweeter,
And life is more worth while.

If we happen to know of their coming,
With joy we prepare our meals.
For each has a favorite liking,
Some special dish that appeals.

Our beds are made sweet in the sunshine,
The linens are snowy white:
Our guests may come from a distance,
And maybe will stay all night.

So our latch-string is ever outside,
For all our friends to find.
We joyfully welcome their coming,
With heart and soul and mind.

The years roll by so quickly;
So soon our lives are spent.
O! if nobody came to our house,
Life wouldn't be worth a cent.

So when you awake in the morning,
And wonder what to do:
Just try dropping in at our house,
There is a welcome waiting for you.

But if nobody comes to our house,
The world is drab indeed:
With all the cares and worries,
It is Love and Friends we need.

Eugene W. Gaines.
Greenfield, Mass.

"It's All In The State of Mind"
If you think you are beaten, you are;

If you think you dare not, you don't;
If you think you're out of win, but you can't,

It's almost a cinch you won't;
If you think you'll lose, you've lost,
For out in the world you'll find

Success begins with a fellow's will;
It's all in the state of mind.

Full many a race is lost
'Ere even a race is run,
And many a coward fails
'Ere his work's begun.
Think big and your deeds will grow.

Think small and you fall behind,
Think that you can, and you will;
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are;
You've got to think high to rise;
You've got to be sure of yourself
Before you can win a prize.

You can ever win a prize.
Life's battle doesn't always go
To the stronger or faster man;
But sooner or later, the man who wins
Is the fellow who thinks he can.
Author Unknown.

PRINTING

I carve the fate of nations
As they fade or grow.
I sow the seed of factions
As they come and go.

I plow the world's great markets
When trade is seemly slow.
That men may come to action
And keep wealth's fires aglow.

I scatter deeds of kindness,
That future men may know,
As through this life he passes,
To reap as he may sow.

I paint the silver lining
On clouds that come and go,
Cheer the mind when pinning,
And make the heart to go.

I hold the key to knowledge,
Its doors to open wide
To those who gain the entrance
And press their way inside.
—Harry Booth in Inland Printer.

A Good Argument A Reasonable Viewpoint

America is remiss if it allows its political parties to put the accent on beer rather than on our economic ills.

Either the politicians are without a solution of our troubles or the solution is too painful for certain interests.

The two political conventions at Chicago were apparently much more agitated about beer than about nominees. The promise of beer was made much more immediate by its proponents in both parties than plans for bread, employment, or reopening the banks.

Mobs were recruited to stampede the conventions and howl for beer. No horde of savages ever resorted to the tom-tom for its emotional mob effect with greater enthusiasm than did the Thompson and Corman adherents adopt the "boo boo" technique. If there was a cheer for platformers pledging prosperity we failed to hear it; but the nation through the radio heard the gang storm the Stadium for beer.

All this was the result of professionally organized mob stuff. From the moment the first anti-prohibition move was started by the brewers wealthy wets have been spending money to arouse mob spirit against law and order; they have backed disobedience; they have jeered at the President's policy of law observance and law enforcement; they are even now leading a whiskey rebellion, aided by the brewers whose ears are plainly visible beneath awkward disguises.

The real economic solution of our troubles would involve a sacrifice on the part of interests represented by wet leadership, who are keeping prohibition in the foreground in order to distract public attention from the real issue.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has maintained that this country has suffered less under the world-wide depression than any other country; and that our economic position as a whole has been bettered by the increased purchasing power of the American people during the prohibition decade. Even in this depression....

This country has more real wealth than before the war.

Total national wealth $329,000,000,000 is greater than a dozen European countries.

American incomes exceed a Billion Dollars a week.

There are still six or seven employed for each idle man.

Total savings bank deposits are $29,000,000,000; nearly $1,000 per family; there are 62,000,000 depositors in savings banks; nearly two per family.

Our total stock of gold is $4,000,000,000; no other country ever owned so much. Britain has $688,000,000 gold.

Currency in circulation aggregates $5,464,000,000; this is more than war time.

These are facts; not arguments.

They are gleaned from Treasury Reports, Census Reports, and bank figures, and are current among business men. They show that even in hard luck Uncle Sam is a gigantic figure in the world.

They do NOT show that beer would make him any better or bigger.

Haigis Is Not

To Be A Candidate

Mr. John W. Haigis of Greenfield, President of the Franklin County Trust Co. and former State Treasurer has definitely decided not to contend for the nomination of the Republican party as its candidate for Governor this fall. Mr. Haigis statement is as follows:—

"Because of what I believe to be a substantial sentiment that I enter the field for the Republican nomination for governor, I have given the matter serious thought. The final date for filing nomination papers is drawing near, and it is only fair to those people who have shown an interest in my possible candidacy that I make my decision known at this time. I have made an effort during the past few weeks to determine what support I might reasonably expect from persons in various sections of the state, and while this survey has on the whole been satisfactory there are important groups in the party who are with holding support which I feel would be necessary to insure my success in the primary. This I have reason to believe is because of the strong possibility that a former Republican governor will announce his intentions of entering the field. "Further, the financial demands of a candidate under our direct primary system (if he really expects to win) are beyond reach of anyone in ordinary circumstances. Such a condition seems unfair, but it is, nevertheless, a fact. It has always been my custom to pay my own way — a principal which I should want to follow, were I to become a candidate in this campaign. This I fear, would entail a sacrifice greater than I can afford to make.

"It is with a feeling of deep regret that I give up what appeared to many people to be a real opportunity, and one which would have opened the way for an important service. I have been privileged to serve Massachusetts in a more modest capacity over a long period of years, and I would have been proud to have had the opportunity to serve this great state as its chief executive."

Mr. Haigis has had an enviable and most successful political career was 21 years old and was elected dating back to the time when he was treasurer and tax collector of the town of Montague, being the youngest man to have ever held those offices. After serving in this capacity for three years he was elected to the legislature

Next Friday afternoon, July 22, the chairman of the different participating towns together with representative committee members will meet at the Ashfield Congregational Chapel at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Belet Hall of Ashfield is chairman of the committee to plan the set-up of the Fair and Miss Winnifred C. Parkhurst, Secretary of the District Y. W. C. A. is general chairman.

On Friday afternoon all committees are to report the way in which their town is helping to make the coming Fair and Dance a huge social and financial success. Final plans will be made in detail.

People from at least twelve neighboring towns of Ashfield are working with enthusiasm on different committees, soliciting food, white elephants, and other articles, and preparing entertainment features for everybody.

Security Values Have Shrank

American investors have seen their securities shrink in value by more than $125,000,000,000 since the stock market crash two and one-half years ago.

This sum is more than 20 times the $6,120,000,000 in actual money now circulating in the United States. It indicates the extent of the deflation in credit. It represents the difference between what people thought securities were worth three years ago and today.

That $125,000,000,000 in credit would pay the expenses of the federal government for 31 years; or pay off the war debts owed the United States by 10 times; or pay off the public debt three times over; or buy all the farm lands of the United States twice over; or if split up and distributed to the American people, would enrich each of them by more than $1,000.

What part of the sum represents actual work and what part is deflation of speculative credit never can be estimated. As confidence returns, credit will expand and business once again will be on a sound basis—until the next speculative boom comes along and upsets it.

Figures mean as little to some investors as they did at the top of the boom. Many are selling securities now as urgently as they bought them several years ago. Until this feeling subsides, and nobody knows when, the market will not find its proper level.

The deflation in prices is clearly illustrated by figures compiled by the New York stock exchange showing the total market value of all securities listed on that market. At the peak, September 1, 1929, the total value was $89,668,276,854.

Recently the value was set at $21,306,000,000, a drop of 76 per cent. The bond market total valuation is $37,000,000,000 against par value of $5,218,219,935.

Adding the loss of $68,361,450, 574 in stocks to the one of $15,218,219,935 in bonds, brings the total deflation on the stock exchange to $85,000,000,000. Adding the deflation in such outside markets as the New York curb exchange, Chicago stock exchange and unlisted markets, brings the total deflation to roughly $125,000,000,000.

Every person with invested funds in Northfield and elsewhere has felt the effects of this deflation and estimates of a man's worth measured in dollars and cents of two and three years ago, is not to be considered as his standard of wealth today. The old adage has been proven true, "that it is easy to earn money but hard to invest it."

The Eastern End Of Road "Cut Off" Is Ready For Traffic

The Mohawk Trail "cut off" from Erving to Greenfield is rapidly approaching completion. The contractors of the road on the east of the river finished their work last Thursday. This section from Millers Falls to the Connecticut River is about two miles and has a bridge over the Millers Falls Northfield Farms road and a bridge over the Central Vermont tracks. The builders were the Lawton Construction company of Providence, R. I., at the bid price of $193,597.10. The bridge across the Central Vermont tracks near Millers Falls was sublet by the Lawton company to E. D. Ward of Worcester. This is completed and is 141 feet long, 45 feet wide, including one five-foot sidewalk, and is 18 feet above the railroad tracks.

The bridge across Moore street is completed and was also sublet to E. D. Ward company by Lawton and is of reinforced concrete, 75 feet long, 15 feet above the road and 50 feet wide, including two five-foot sidewalks. The new piece of state road is considered by many to be unusually heavy job for its length. There were 16,000 feet of dirt excavated, 10,000 feet of dirt used in filling, and 20,000 feet of gravel, 15,000 tons of crushed stone was used on the road and 95,000 gallons of asphalt. The hardest part of the work was encountered in what is known as the Stevens cut, where considerable blasting had to be done and the largest fill was in the Comins pasture across from the Central Vermont tracks.

Eight Presidents Were Episcopalian

More presidents of the United States have been of that faith than any other. George Washington, James Madison, James Monroe, William Henry Harrison, John Tyler, Zachary Taylor, Franklin Pierce and Chester A. Arthur.

If Franklin D. Roosevelt goes to the White House he will be the ninth Protestant Episcopal President of the United States.

Mr. Roosevelt is senior warden of St. James Church, Hyde Park, N. Y., his home town, where he has been a vestryman almost thirty years. He and Mrs. Roosevelt regularly worship at the little stone edifice, at which the rector is the Rev. Frank R. Wilson.

Mr. Roosevelt is also a trustee of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Until he became Governor he attended quite regularly the trustees' monthly meetings, held in the office of Bishop William T. Manning, in Cathedral Close.

A few years ago when Dr. Manning conducted a campaign for funds to finish the cathedral Mr. Roosevelt was national chairman of the committee for completing the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The Methodist Episcopal Church is certain to have a Vice President of the United States for the next four years because both Vice President Curtis, the Republican nominee, and John N. Garner, the running-mate of Mr. Roosevelt, are affiliated with that denomination.

Next to the Protestant Episcopal faith, the Presbyterian Church has furnished the largest number of Presidents, six: Andrew Jackson, James K. Polk, James Buchanan, Grover Cleveland, Benjamin Harrison and Woodrow Wilson. Although Abraham Lincoln never formally united with a church he regularly attended Presbyterian services.

The Methodist Episcopal Church has given four Presidents: Andrew Johnson, Ulysses S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley.

Four have also come from the Unitarians: John Adams, John Quincy Adams, Millard Fillmore and William Howard Taft.

Two Presidents were of the Reformed faith: Martin Van Buren and Theodore Roosevelt.

Four religious bodies have had one member each in the Presidency. James A. Garfield was a Disciple of Christ and Warren G. Harding a Baptist. Calvin Coolidge is a Congregationalist and Herbert Hoover a Quaker.

Thomas Jefferson did not claim membership in any denomination.

Attorney Fairhurst To Try Snow Case

Attorney Charles Fairhurst is to try the case against Walter N. Snow former president of the Interstate Mortgage Trust company, who was indicted by the grand jury on 25 counts for larceny of $25,897 from investors in the company, which will come to trial at the present session of the superior court, according to a statement made by Joseph T. Bartlett District Attorney of Franklin County. It is expected the case will be reached very soon and no doubt the progress of the trial will be watched by many interested citizens who hold investments in Western farm mortgages made through that firm.

Mr. Snow will be represented in court by his attorney, Abner McLeod.

One indictment of two counts charges larceny of $1,000 on each count from Belle Hall and Lillie F. Weinbeck Sabin. The second indictment of 23 counts charges the same offense from the following persons: Florence W. Adams, $200; Ethel L. Day, $859; Myra L. Lease, $1,600; Charles W. Felton, $1,000; Monica S. Harris, $1,500; Ruby F. Hemenway, $800; Betsy C. and John W. Hughes, $1,000; Frank L. Johnson, $600; Elizabeth and H. H. Lockwood, $500; Mary E. Loomis and G. C. Perry, $1,000; Herman and Millie Perkins, $1,599; Arthur B. Pollard, $600; Clyde M. Rushford, $200; Elizabeth Smith, $1,000; Sarah F. Young, $5,000; Ina A. Walker, $2,139.

Walter N. Snow was president of the Interstate Mortgage Trust company for ten years prior to the closing of the firm over a year ago. He had been associated with the concern for 42 years, being its first cashier.

Receivership for the Interstate Mortgage Trust company was first asked in March, 1930, by E. M. Swatzel in the district court at Parsons, Kansas. He alleged "gross mismanagement" had impaired capital stock of which he held some $37,000 and made other allegations. About three weeks later Judge W. D. Atkinson refused to appoint a receiver but ordered a year's trial for the company to continue business, reporting back monthly to the court. Officers of the company at that time termed this a "spite suit" by Swatzel, a former official and stated mortgage holders were fully protected.

A new petition for a receiver was filed in the Boston federal court, early in March of last year and a hearing on the petition March 23, 1931, to determine whether the receivers were to be appointed as petitioned for the company. The company, it was stated at that time, to have about $200,000 certificates of deposit outstanding, which were direct liabilities of the company and to have placed more than $2,000,000 in mortgages for New England investors on farm lands in the south west.

Another petition for receivership of the Interstate company was asked at Parsons, Kans., shortly after the Boston hearing. As a result J. Cleon Creel, jr., an official of the Federal Land bank of Wichita, Kan., took charge of the affairs of the Interstate company on April 2 through appointment by Federal Judge Hopkins, acting on the petition of involuntary bankruptcy at Ft. Scott, Kans., by a New York creditor. The Boston petition was dismissed by Judge James A. Lowell of the federal district court, when he was informed that the bankruptcy petition had been filed in Kansas which would preclude equity proceedings before him.

The Greenfield office of the Interstate company was closed April 3, 1931 and Snow relinquished the affairs of the presidency.

A statement made in the press by Mr. Creel of Parsons Kansas since the announced trial says that:

"It appears that the counts charged in the indictments have to do principally with the sale of certificates of deposit by the Greenfield office. These certificates outstanding at bankruptcy totaled $236,477.46, according to the records."

The liability items are listed as follows: Loans paid by borrowers, proceeds not remitted to investors $40,381.63; loans sold to investors, proceeds not remitted to borrowers, $59,374; interest payments collected, not remitted to investors, between $25,000 and $30,000; overlapping loans, re-leased mortgage sold, old mortgage released but not taken up, $11,150; certificates of deposit, $236,477.46.

Boy Seriously Injured On Street Of Bernardston By Auto—Loses Foot

Little James Nims six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Nims of South street, Bernardston, lost his left foot following an accident near his home Thursday of last week in late afternoon.

The accident occurred when the boy started to cross the main highway in front of an approaching northbound car driven by Miguel Rabuffa, of Lyme Road, Hanover N. H. Mr. Rabuffa according to police, swung the car to the left and applied the brakes but the boy was struck by the right rear wheel of the automobile, a heavy car, as it swerved. Rabuffa said he was driving about 35 miles an hour.

The boy was run over by the automobile and his foot was so badly crushed that it had to be amputated above the ankle after he had been rushed to the Franklin County hospital. Drs. Alfred Johnson and H. G. Stetson attended the lad, Dr. Stetson performing the operation.

A truck driven by Rene Tessier, of 178 Carew street, Springfield, happened along at the time and picked up the lad, together with his mother, summoned from a neighborhood gathering, and drove to the hospital.

State Patrolman Jean R. Coutu of the Shelburne Falls barracks investigated the accident and placed Rabuffa under arrest on a charge of driving so as to endanger. He was arraigned in district court, Saturday morning where his case was postponed.

Conference Guide

A serviceable guide has been prepared by the Record of Christian Work for free circulation among the guests at the conferences. Its main feature is the outline map of the Seminary campus which we reproduced in our last issue. Information is also given about many things a visitor wants to know, such as where to find the conference office and registration rooms, program of meetings, hours of incoming and outgoing mail, tennis and golf facilities, etc. Automobile distances from Northfield to the larger cities as far as Montreal, Buffalo and Philadelphia are listed, as well as shorter round trips from Northfield. Hiking to nearby points of interest is encouraged by giving mileage. A condensed history of the Northfield Seminary buildings concludes this useful 4-page pamphlet, which fills a longfelt need.

Here is an advance tip to entries in the Paramount "Panther Woman" contest being conducted by the Lawler Theater on the stage next Thursday evening. In case you should win the coveted award have your tennis racquet, swimming suit and golf clubs ready to pack for that trip to Hollywood.

The "Panther Woman" will reside in the beautiful Ambassador Hotel in Hollywood. She will be able to walk out on the Ambassador grounds to play golf, tennis, swim in the plunge where the Olympic aquatic stars train, and take part in many other sports provided for on the 22-acre flowery park of the great hotel. However, if the Paramount winner does not wish to trouble herself with this extra sport equipment, she may leave it at home. The Ambassador is prepared to furnish her with any athletic wear or equipment she may require during her five-week stay.

A new Monterey sand beach has just been installed at one end of the Ambassador swimming pool. The inviting Pacific, with its glistening beaches, is only a few minutes drive down Wilshire Boulevard from the Ambassador.

The Ambassador is a city within itself. It houses the famous Coconut Grove, dining and dancing room, where motion picture stars gather nightly. It has its own first class motion picture theatre, beauty shop, bank, postoffice, modish millinery, photographer—in all, thirty-five smart shops on the casino floor of the Ambassador.

Miss Virginia Marie Mann of Northfield has already entered the competition to determine who shall represent the Lawler Theatre in the nation wide contest to find a young lady to portray the part of the "Panther Woman" in "The Island of Lost Souls."

(BELOW) WHO IS SHE? Not Claudette Colbert—every movie fan knows this charming screen star—but who is the girl pictured in the drawing Claudette is holding? Nobody knows—yet! It is an artist's impression of the Panther Woman, sought by Paramount among the unknown screen-aspirants of America.

Winchester Baseball

The Winchester baseball club journeyed to Gardner Mass. last Saturday afternoon and met defeat at the hands of the Florence Oil Stove team of that city 5-4. The loose fielding of Winchester in the first and third innings and the uneven outfield where ground balls were wont to take crazy hops were mainly responsible for the Gardner club getting two runs in each of the first and third innings. Winchester settled down and managed to manufacture a couple of runs in the fourth inning, and Gardner garnered their fifth run in the seventh on a triple by Lashua their flashy third baseman and an infield hit.

In the ninth inning Winchester started a rally when Davis drew a base on balls, Dent swung through shortstop, Burns walked, then Davis and Burns scored on Lan's hit to right field but the other men on base were left when Hanna and "Pete" Davis hit weakly to the infield. Features of the game were the fielding of Dent for Winchester and Lashua for Gardner and the hitting of Linell for Gardner and Hanna for Winchester.

Batteries: Stanah and Woods for Gardner; Goddard and Pratt for Winchester. Umpire Dorval.

The Sunday game in Winchester with the Hadley, Mass. A. C. was started under threatening conditions and after the sides had been retired at the end of the first inning a heavy downpour halted hostilities. After waiting until the storm went over so much water was on the diamond that further play was impossible. The Hadley team will return Sunday August 21st.

On next Sunday at Anderson Field the strong Milton Bradley team of Springfield will oppose Winchester. This club is one of the most colorful semi-pro teams in the New England states. Included in their lineup will be Murray of Holy Cross, Pepper of Fordham, Jim Devine formerly with New Haven of the Eastern League, Harrington of New York University, Tausche who had a tryout with the Chicago White Sox. The baseball fans of this section cannot afford to miss this attraction.

Northfield Loses To The Mohawks

Northfield took a fine drubbing at the hands of the fast Greenfield Mohawks last Friday night. The score was 18-3.

The visitors found the fast ball of Stanley Bistrek much to their liking so pounded the ball to all corners of the lot.

The Northfield boys helped out by making "only" ten errors, so the Mohawks marched merrily around the bases.

"Dick" Miller who has not played ball for nearly two years was back at his old position at second base. No one would ever have known that he hadn't played for so long except that he couldn't seem to speed to first quite as fast on a hit ball as he used to.

Munzing, the visiting shortstop poked a long home run into right center that sure was a hit. Aumond and Williams also connected for four baggers. Munzing seemed to feature in the field for the visitors, while Glazier played a "bang-up" game at third for the Northfield team.

Winchester To Play Here Friday

Friday night of this week will see the strong Winchester N. H. team in action here. This is a strong team and will put up a very "snappy" game.

Next Monday night July 25, "Andy Sarge's," former Mt. Hermon Physical Instructor, will bring his Camp Nonotuck boys here for a game. They put up a real ball game last year so a good game is expected.

Wednesday, July 27, the Northfield boys play a strong team of the Montague Machine Co. nine. The team, composed mostly of Turners Falls men including Klamber, Care, the Riel brothers and other baseball stars from that town, are sure to put up a real fight from start to finish. This game will be a benefit game for the Boy Scout's Camp. Let's have a good attendance.

The following games are also scheduled: July 29, St. Mary of Orange. Aug. 3, Colrain. Aug. 5, No. Leverett. Aug. 10, Charenton.

"WHAT PRICE HOLLYWOOD"
"VANITY FAIR"

Of its people and made by its people, Hollywood writes its own biography in "What Price Hollywood," which brings the smart vivacity of the glamorous Constance Bennett in her latest RKO Pathe starring production. Miss Bennett is purported to surmount the charm and elegance she displayed in her previous film success, "Lady With A Past," which won a host of new fans for the screen star.

With a galaxy of celebrities in support, Miss Bennett unfolds the intricacies and intimacies of the inner and more notable circles of the Film Capitol. Lowell Sherman, Neil Hamilton, Gregory Ratoff, Louise Beavers and others add the star to present an authentic scrutinization of Hollywood life. The action traverses the thoroughfare of social life coupled with a delightful tale. Malibu Beach, the Brown Derby Restaurant, glittering Hollywood Boulevard, Agua Caliente, a Chinese Theatre premiere and the princely estates of Beverly Hills partake of the film footage to enhance the story. Moreover, every phase of talking picture making is frankly revealed.

The story of "What Price Hollywood" was authored by Adela Rogers Hyland, one of the city's own residents who consequently is enabled to cull the most familiar angles of Hollywood. Concerning itself with an ambitious girl who crashes the studio gates, the plot depicts the spectacular rise of a waitress who enchants a famed director and producer to gain ace ranking on the screen. Intertwined, is an ultra-modern note of romance and whimsical comedy which will charm Bennett fans and snare an additional list of followers.

THURSDAY — THROUGH SATURDAY

July 28-29-30
"WINNER TAKE ALL"
"UNASHAMED"

Here is a fair warning for you. . . . One of these days you are going to see a different James Cagney flash on the screen, minus strutting swagger and clipped New Yorker speech.

If Cagney has his way about it he is going to play a picture in which no fists, guns or grapefruit are in evidence.

This doesn't mean that we won't still have the Cagney as we know him now. Rather, we will have a Cagney who can talk Park Avenue as well as "Toid Avenya."

Following the release of his current Warner Bros. picture "Winner Take All," and in which he plays a hard hitting prizefighter, Cagney intends doing some intensive work in diction.

The clipped-speech you are used to hearing him utter was once part of him.

"It was all right for my first three pictures," Cagney said. "I could go home at night and talk to my wife and friends in my every-day, off screen intonation. But working in this medium all the time has worked havoc. I sometimes catch myself away from the studio using the clipped speech of my roles; and what is worse, when I speak normally I sometimes get the feeling that I am 'putting it on.'"

The truth of the matter is, Cagney has an ace or two up his sleeve in the matter of versatility of future roles, and he is up in arms to keep the Cagney of his former pictures from getting too intimate with the Cagney of his future characterizations.

John Barrymore, Helen Twelvetrees, William Boyd
in "STATE'S ATTORNEY"

Here we have Barrymore in a different type of role, that of a district attorney with a large practice. He handles himself in the usual capable manner, using clever lines and gestures to lighten the dramatic situations. There is plenty of comedy in the story, which incidentally is far above the average in screen fare, making a powerful story, which holds the interest from start to finish. Helen Twelvetrees and William Boyd give masterful performances.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING

JULY 28—2 O'CLOCK—8 O'CLOCK

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR., MARY BRYAN
IN "IT'S TOUGH TO BE FAMOUS"

It's Tough To Be Famous concerns the trials and tribulations besetting a young naval officer suddenly catapulted to national fame as a result of his heroism in the line of duty. Even before he regains consciousness after a hair-breadth escape from death in the hold of a hunken submarine from which he had already released his subordinates via the torpedo tubes, he had been hailed by the newspapers and the public. A quiet and unassuming youth, his private life is made public his marriage to a childhood sweetheart becomes a matter for the newspapers and magazines, and his life is made generally miserable to the extent that he eventually seeks oblivion after a reconciliation with his wife, estranged as a result of too much interference in their lives.

Doug Jr.'s latest is also said to be his best, the young star revealing a definite talent for satiric interpretation and a genuine ability to keep pace with what is being hailed as one of the swiftest-moving motion pictures ever made. The story moves from submarine to fleet to a New York reception rivaling those accorded other aerial and naval heroes and covers a dozen other locals in rapid succession. The breathless pace of the picture continues to the climax and unusual ending, with Doug leading the excellent cast in its rapid course through newspaper headlines, testimonial dinners, speeches, parades and other vexations of individuals too much favored by public interest in their lives. . . . It's Tough To Be Famous presents, in addition to its strong cast and highly entertaining story, a series of scenes filmed at the seabed of a sunken submarine showing the rescue of the men trapped with Fairbanks Jr. after the undersea boat had been rammed by a steamship. Scenes of the men shooting from the torpedo tubes to the surface of the ocean and divers at rescue work are also vividly portrayed providing additional thrills for what has been called the "swiftest-paced picture of the year."

The large supporting cast in "It's Tough To Be Famous" includes Mary Brian, Walter Catlett, Oscar Apfel, David Landau, Emma Dunn, Lillian Bond and many others equally well-known to film audiences.

The most futile kind of business next to prognosticating is to attempt to say what might have happened if—

If things hadn't happened as they did. Napoleon Smith has been exiled to his political Elba, and I'm wondering as he broods and sulks on the lonely shore of his Lost Chance what he thinks now of his generalship. How much did he contribute to Wellington Roosevelt's success?

WHEN the showdown came, the anti-Roosevelt crowd was found to be poorly organized. It was completely out-generaled by the astute James A. Farley, who held the trump cards at every stage of the game.

Governor Albert C. Ritchie was the second choice of the Smith delegates, and there can be no doubt that the Marylander went to the convention firm in the belief that the egg would fall into his basket when the time came.

RITCHIE, smiling and affable, cut quite a figure, splurging "It" all over the place, basking in the acclaim he received wherever he put in an appearance, standing in his seat to take bows, and being accompanied by a bodyguard of police. But he started in prematurely with his "secret service" outfit, and now has no need of being shadowed in the Presidential manner.

The long, tedious polls on the first ballot showed that some delegates pledged to Roosevelt would be likely to bolt him as soon as the primary or convention obligations had been fulfilled. This was even more noticeable on the second ballot.

IOWA, voting under the unit rule, had some unruly young colts who showed uneasiness under restraint. Two or three of them wanted to shift to Smith but were outvoted by the majority of their delegates. Mississippi had a few who were ready to go to a dark horse—how many of them, we shall never know. Michigan also had a slim Smith following that could have been shifted at the right time.

On the first ballot, it will be remembered, Roosevelt had 666 2/3 and Smith, 20 2/3. Garner had 90 1/4—44 from California, 46 from Texas and 1/2 of a vote picked up from some unpledged delegate. Traylor, the Chicago banker, had 42 1/2; Reed 24; Byrd, 25; Murray, 23—his own 22 of Oklahoma, had 42 1/2; Reed of Missouri, 24; Byrd, 25; Murray 22; Ritchie, 21 and Baker 8 1/2.

ON THE second ballot, Roosevelt jumped to 677 1/2, Smith fell back to 194 1/4, White lost 1 1/2, Reed lost 6, Byrd lost one, Ritchie gained 2 1/2, and Baker lost half a vote.

Roosevelt's gain of 11 1/2 should have shown the anti-Roosevelt contingent what was likely to happen. It should have shown that Smith was done, that he had shot his bolt. It is futile now to say what should have been done by Smith if he really wanted to stop Roosevelt. I don't say that he could have turned the tide from the New York governor, but as I see it, the third ballot was the time he should have attempted it.

JIM FARLEY was beginning to have trouble with some of the recalcitrants in his camp, as the poll requested by a member of the Iowa delegation clearly showed. Everything appeared to be set for a prolonged deadlock, so far as everybody except William G. McAdoo and his lieutenants could tell. Now that it's all over, everybody in the Ohio delegation would probably say that they were all for Roosevelt after the "favor ite son" balloting for Governor White had run its course. But I'm not so sure that this is so. The fifty-two votes might have been swung to some candidate other than Smith or Roosevelt.

THERE is no indication that Smith or his friends had sounded the Ohioans on this point. But Ohio was in the opposition, and it would have been good strategy on Smith's part to start shifting. The time to have done it, as I have said, was on the third ballot. At that time, as it turned out, Smith could have swung his block of 190 1/4 votes into the Ritchie column. This added to Ritchie's 23 1/2 would have given the Marylander 213 1/2 votes, plus a possible 52 1/2 from White, plus a possible 40 1/4 votes from Traylor, plus a possible 27 1/2 votes from the Missouri delegation.

I DON'T presume for a moment that all these votes could have been corralled; what I mean to say is that in the calling of the roll, Connecticut could have started the swing to Ritchie, and there is no telling what might have happened before Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York were reached.

With Ritchie the runner-up at the end of the third ballot, the entire picture would have been changed. Roosevelt had jumped from 666 2/3 votes on the first ballot to 682.79 on the third. Those sixteen-odd scattered delegates might have swung into the Ritchie column when they saw the trend. Assume, for the sake of analysis, that this is what would have happened.

ROOSEVELT'S basic strength may be set down as 666 2/3, his vote on the first ballot. If, at the end of the third ballot, this had been his strength, the fact that he had dropped from 677 1/2, the vote on the second ballot, might have had far-reaching psychological effect.

During the recess of twelve hours, Ritchie supporters could have convinced many unpledged delegates that Roosevelt, too, had shot his bolt, that a prolonged deadlock was inevitable, and that it could be broken only by voting for Ritchie.

AT THE beginning of the fourth ballot, the impact of Mr. McAdoo's explanation of the California vote would have lost much of its effect. Even with all the 90 votes of California and Texas in the Roosevelt column, he would still be 13 1/2 votes below the necessary two-thirds necessary to nominate—assuming that on the fourth ballot he could have held the 666 2/3 which is not at all certain.

At any rate, a deadlock would more than ever have been in prospect, and many delegates might have swung away from Roosevelt to Ritchie on the fifth ballot, thereby ending Roosevelt's chances.

AS MATTERS stood at the end of the third ballot, Farley had the bulge on Smith. The psychological reaction in the minds of countless delegates was that they must choose between Roosevelt and Smith, and they preferred Roosevelt.

So, too, did Mr. William Gibbs McAdoo of California, formerly of New York and Washington, D. C. With him there was an old score to be settled, and he was just the boy to settle it. William Randolph Hearst, the original Garner man, also had a score of some years' standing. Both were waiting to cook Al Smith's goose.

WHEN he permitted his name to ride the third ballot, Smith lost whatever chance he may have had to trot in the dark horse. At the beginning of the third ballot, Ritchie's presidential hopes went glimmering.

McAdoo waited eight years to settle his 1924 account with Smith and Tammany, and when he rose to "explain California's vote," his mind must have wandered back to old Madison Square Garden, where he and Smith battled each other for 102 ballots that ended with the acceptance of John W. Davis as a compromise. That talk about not jeopardizing the success of the Democratic party, which McAdoo rung in was applesauce. He was settling an old score with Alfred Emanuel Smith, and Alfred Emanuel, by staying in for the third ballot, had unintentionally given him the opportunity.

IT MAY be that this analysis is all wrong. But if Al and Tammy weren't napping, what would you call it? They were jockeyed completely out of the running. How did it happen? Nor until McAdoo reached the platform to "explain" did the Tammanyites sense what was in the air. I suspect some of Johnnie Curry's men were too muddled even then to get the full import of the "explanation." I even suspect that the bootleggers in old Chicago may have had something to do with the stupidity of the city yokels and clods from Manhattan. But what happened to Curry and Smith? They must have been too sleepy to know what they were doing when the voting commenced on the third ballot.

Northfield Defeats Brattleboro 7-5

The Northfield A. A. team avenged last Wednesday, for a defeat given them earlier in the season by the Brattleboro Co. team of Brattleboro. The Northfield boys handed them a 7-5 setback. Although the local team didn't take to the slow ball pitching of George Maher, the visiting "twirler," they found him a total of 10 hits. "Bob" Shearer turned in a wonderful exhibition of fine pitching and was in "hot water" but a few times in the visiting game. Gray Gange, the visiting catcher, who is due for one or more home runs in nearly every game, found one of the longest hits seen here for a long time. "Clint" Graves started at bat for Brattleboro, getting 3 safe hits out of 4 trips to the plate. Kersavage, Bolton, and Polhemus were outstanding at the plate for Northfield, while Shearer's pitching took the spotlight for fieldwork.

Prosperity Surely Coming
Employment Gains
Financial Outlook Better

It looks as if "the corner has been turned" and that better times are ahead. Employment in 37 cities and town in the state has shown an increase in June over May and the total amount in payrolls is also larger. July will be ahead of June. There are indications of greater activity among the industrial establishments of the state and recently idle mills have reopened and recalled as high as 1500 in a single establishment. Manual workers in the street, highway and public works departments of the reporting municipalities increased 8.4 per cent, probably due to seasonal factors.

The financial analysts report a brighter outlook and a better price in securities of various kinds. The automobile manufacturers of low priced cars say that sales are increasing and purchase of refrigerators, radios washing machines, oil burners and other conveniences are not diminished.

While in Northfield we have not felt the full effect of the depression, we have had a few idle workers and a demand for town support. Now that much road work is under way, Schell Bridge being repaired, the French King bridge and road work under way, the Seminary requiring special labor for Conference effort and our farmers using additional labor as well as summer residents, there is now no real need and nearly all who want work have something to do. What we need now is a clear mind and steady thinking—to forget old man depression and stop advertising him and to look forward with optimistic vein resolved to bring in better times.

Governors Coming
To The Exposition

Five of the six New England governors and the governor-elect of the sixth will represent their respective states at the opening of the Eastern States Exposition on Sunday and Monday, Sept. 18, and 19, for the annual Governors' Day observances with the probability that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, Democratic Presidential nominee, Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Gov. Harry Moore of New Jersey and Gov. C. Douglas Buck of Delaware will attend also.

able to be present but the Pine Tree State will be represented by its newly elected governor who will be chosen prior to the Exposition's opening date.

Gov. Roosevelt has informed the Governors' Day officials that he will be present if it is possible to arrange his exacting schedule to permit, and the dates have been reserved by Govs. Moore, Pinchot and Buck.

Chev's Sell

Chevrolet dealers reported the sale of 43,397 new cars and trucks in June. W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager has announced.

The figure exceeded by 10,000 units domestic production for the month and was within ten per cent of the reported sales for May. He cited figures by ten-day periods to show the effect of the new federal tax on sales for the month. In the first ten days, dealers reported 12,486 units sold; in the second ten days, 18,544 units, and in the last ten days, when the new tax was in effect, 12,367 units. Normally the last period of the month is the largest, Mr. Knudsen said.

All sections of the country showed a favorable comparison in the last ten days with the first ten days of the month.

Items Of Interest

Rev. Charles G. White of Millers Falls is responsible for a statement that is meeting with a great deal of approval. He declared that he thought it would be appropriate if on any bridge erected where a life was lost that a suitable bronze plate be erected on the bridge. It is understood that this matter will be brought to the attention of the department of public works at Boston to see if this can be done at this time. It is also planned to present a bill in the next legislature seeking to have laws passed governing the matter.

Plans for the inauguration of Stanley King as 11th president of Amherst college have been announced by the Alumni council. Mr. King will take up his residence in Amherst Sept. 1, and the inauguration ceremonies will take place Friday, Nov. 11. On that morning the induction exercises will be held in College hall, followed by an inaugural luncheon. In the afternoon there will be a reception by President and Mrs. King at the president's house.

Friday evening there will be the fraternity initiations and the Faculty Club house will be open to alumni. Saturday morning, Nov. 12, President King will address the Alumni council and on Saturday afternoon there will be the Amherst-Williams football game.

sion, Room 482, State House Boston. In addition to stopping places, the booklet outlines by means of maps several tours of Massachusetts, which include the seashore, mountain, historical and educational points of interest in the state.

The Millers Falls Sportsmen club received notice from the department of conservation at Boston that a shipment of 50 pheasants will be made to the local club in the near future. William Nagle will keep the birds and feed them and next spring they will be liberated. When the birds are received they will be about ten weeks old. The club assumes the cost of feeding the birds which is about $3 per month. Last year this venture was tried out and the members met at Mr. Nagle's home and erected pens for the birds to live in and this spring they were liberated in the various covers adjacent to the town.

Two slight accidents in two nights have occurred at suspension bridge in Brattleboro on the Spofford Lake road, bringing the season's total to about a half-dozen. Police did not secure the names of the drivers in the last two smashes, in which both cars hit the bridge, but one was a Massachusetts Ford roadster and the other an Ontario car. Motorists believe that the warning signs at the bridge are not adequate for the protection of out-of-town drivers.

The J. C. Muhyar Furniture company, of Greenfield have been awarded the contract to furnish equipment for the new county courthouse. Their bid was the lowest at $11,136.80.

Work in repairing the so-called "Red" suspension bridge between Turners Falls and Riverside is under way by the Marshall-McClintock construction company of Pennsylvania.

The damages to the structure were caused by the passing over it of heavily loaded trucks which were carrying materials for use in the building of the French King bridge. The construction company will bear the expense of the repair work.

Automobiles in Massachusetts used 1,173,677 fewer gallons of gasoline during June than in June of 1931.

Figures show that during last month, 52,509,833 gallons were used which, at a tax of three cents a gallon, will net the state treasury $1,575,294.99. In June, 1931, motorists used 53,683,510 gallons which also carried the three-cent excise tax.

Considerable damage was done to the tobacco crops through the Connecticut Valley last Sunday in the severe storm which swept over this section.

There were three showers during which hail fell all within a half hour. In the final one, hail, some of it of good size, fell for nearly 15 minutes.
